

MISC INFO

[1] BROWN UNIVERSITY, Providence (02912)—Residential environment; merged with its coordinate college, Pembroke, in 1971; classes co-ed.; privately controlled liberal arts university; chartered 1764; opened 1765 as Rhode Island College by Baptists at Warren, R.I., now non-denominational; moved 1770 to Providence; closed 1776 to 1782 and used as hospital and barracks; present name adopted 1804 after gifts from Nicholas Brown; 3,101 undergraduate men, 1,345 undergraduate women; 1,343 graduate students; fac. 1: 5; lib. 1,500,000 vols.; entering students admitted only in Sept.; CEEB's S.A.T. and 3 Achievement Tests required of all applicants; mean test scores V636, M685; Phi Beta Kappa 1830; Tau Beta Pi 1954; Sigma Xi 1900; app. AAUW; regional accreditation: New England Assn.

Tuition $3,250; annual room and board $1,360; typical expenses total $5,260, no additional fees of any kind; 24 dormitories and 12 fraternities on campus; refectory for men which seats 1,800; dormitories and dining halls for women on Pembroke campus; fraternity students live in chapter houses; $3,209,000 in scholarship awards; average award in a year $2,600; approximately 40% of student body receives some form of financial aid; monthly payment of tuition plan available; CSS; loan funds $484,000; average loan per year is $450, maximum $1,000; $4,000 is 4-year maximum; int. rate 3 or 4% after graduation; jobs total $313,000; college employs students in dining halls, library, laboratories, etc.; job range $50 to $500; intercollegiate athletics in football, basketball, baseball, track, cross-country, hockey, soccer, tennis, golf, swimming, wrestling, skiing, crew, sailing, lacrosse, rifle, Rugby.

Divisions include the College, Pembroke College, Graduate School; degrees offered are B.A. in liberal arts (50 fields); Sc.B. in applied mathematics, biology, chemistry, engineering, geology, physics; 5-year B.A.-Sc.B., 6-year M. of Med. Sci., M.A., M.A.T., M.Sc., and Ph.D.; degree requirements are 28 semester courses; B.A. degree has flexible requirements in humanities, sciences, and social studies; 8-10 semester courses required in field of concentration, not necessarily restricted to one department, may be started in either freshman, sophomore or junior year; 8-10 free electives; proficiency in one foreign language required; advanced placement, honors, independent study, seminars, foreign study, teacher training; Sc.B. degree requires 16-20 courses in concentration.

2 [1] PEMBROKE COLLEGE, Providence—See Brown Univ.

[1] BRYANT COLLEGE, Smithfield (02917)—Suburban environment; co-ed.; non-profit college of business administration; founded 1863; 2,390 students, 1,885 men and 505 women; evening division 1,400 students; admissions September and January; CEEB's S.A.T. required for admission; mean test scores V450, M510; approved AAUW; regional accreditation: New England Assn.

Tuition and fees $1,800; room and board $1,150; typical expenses $1,900 for day students, $3,125 for resident students; dormitories for men and women; fraternities and sororities; scholarships and NDSL fund; work opportunities on and off campus; intercollegiate and intramural sports.

Degrees offered: B.S. in Business Administration with majors in accounting, economics, finance, management, institutional management, systems management, marketing; B.S. in business teacher education; four-year programs may be completed in three years if student elects to attend summer sessions; A.S. in secretarial studies for two-year secretarial program; secretarial majors in executive, medical, legal and accounting secretarial; graduate programs with majors in management or accounting lead to M.B.A. degree.

[2] and [J2] JOHNSON AND WALES COLLEGE, Providence (02903) Abbott Park Place—Urban environment; founded 1914; private, non-profit, non-sectarian, co-ed. institution specializing in business education; college offers variety of one-year, two-year and four-year programs in areas of business specialization; operates under a four-day week trimester plan; 584 men, 375 women; admissions requirements include a high school diploma or equivalent; CEEB scores are considered when available but are not required.

Resident student fee of $2,751 covers tuition, fees, room, board for one year; books are about $150; commuter student tuition is $1,470; mandatory $81 general fee; students majoring in data processing management pay additional annual lab fee of $210; court reporting majors are required to purchase their own touch shorthand machines at cost of $200; financial aid program available to students demonstrating financial need; students applying must submit Parents' Confidential Statement; competitive scholarships are awarded to freshmen on basis of examination administered during month of February; athletic grants awarded in baseball, basketball, cross-country, golf and tennis; EOG, NDSL, College Work-Study program awards; part-time opportunities available because of downtown location of the college.

Students are allowed to major in a given area starting in freshman year and at end of sophomore year, provided they have successfully met all requirements, they are granted A.S. degree in their chosen major; junior and senior years for those who wish to continue are spent in further specialization in B.S. degree programs; four-year graduates of Johnson and Wales may thus receive an associate degree as well as a bachelor's degree; several programs include cooperative work assignments in partial fulfillment of graduation requirements; students enrolled in Fashion Merchandising and Retailing Management programs receive on-the-job experience in the College's own student-staffed retail outlet.

[2] MOUNT SAINT JOSEPH COLLEGE, Wakefield (02879)—Rural environment about 50 miles from Providence; four-year liberal arts college for women; sponsored by the Roman Catholic Church; established 1953; 250 women; lib. 15,000 vols.; freshmen admitted fall semester; transfer students, fall and spring; admission with high school transcript; CEEB requested but not required; interview necessary for transfer students; tuition and general fees for year $1,250; room and board $1,100; residence facilities for 175 students; seven tuition scholarships awarded annually to freshmen; B.A. degree awarded; majors in English, biology, French, Spanish, mathematics, psychology, social welfare, chemistry, general science, history, sociology, elementary, secondary and early childhood education.

[1] NARRAGANSETT BAY CAMPUS, Narragansett—See Rhode Island University of.

[1] OUR LADY OF PROVIDENCE, SEMINARY OF, Warwick (02889) Neck Ave.—Men's Roman Catholic liberal arts college; divinity only; 110 students; tuition $1,100; board and room $900; fees up to $100; grants and loans available; CEEB's S.A.T. used for admission; scores V480, M480; A.B. degree in sociology, English and philosophy; accreditation: New England Assn.

[1] PEMBROKE COLLEGE, Providence—See Brown University

[1] PROVIDENCE CENTER, Providence—See Rhode Island, Univ.

[1] PROVIDENCE COLLEGE, Providence (02918)—Urban environment; men's Roman Catholic liberal arts college, conducted by Dominicans; started 1917; 2,564 men; lib. 105,500 vols.; fac. 1: 13; freshmen admitted only on CEEB's S.A.T. and 3 Achievement Tests; regional accreditation: New England Assn.

Tuition $1,700, laboratory fees extra; board and room $1,000; typical expenses $3,200 for residential students, $1,800 for students who commute; dormitories and dining halls; no fraternities; scholarships, average value $765; 496 loans (including NDSL) amount $683; more than one-half of students earn all or part way.

Degrees offered are B.A. and B.S. in liberal arts and B.S. in administration; M.S. in biology, English, history, secondary and education, guidance and counseling, chemistry and physics; Ph.D. in Chemistry; Arts Honors Program and Honors Science Program sponsored by National Institutes of Health; Sum. Sess.

[1] RHODE ISLAND, UNIVERSITY OF, Kingston (02881)—Rural environment, 30 miles south of Providence; co-ed., state-controlled university; started 1892 as Rhode Island College of Agriculture and Arts; present name adopted 1951; 4,427 men, 3,360 women full-time graduate students; lib. 325,000 vols.; fac. 1: 12; freshmen admitted on entrance tests required of all new freshmen are CEEB's S.A.T. and 3 Achievement Tests; mean test scores V450, M510; approved AAUW; regional accreditation: New England Assn.

No tuition for state residents, $900 for out-of-state students; $614; board $565, room $500-$600; typical expenses for student campus $2,400-$3,300; 7 dormitories for men, 10 for women; available for married students; dining facilities consist of 2 national fraternities, 10 national sororities, students permitted chapter houses; 15 fraternities with dining facilities; limited cover normally the $614 general fee for state residents or the $900 for out-of-state students; loan fund $79,950; average loan $425 while in college, 3% after leaving college; 40% of students earn all or part of expenses.

Main divisions include Colleges of Resource Development, Sciences, Business Administration, Engineering, Home Economics, Nursing, Division of University Extension, Summer Session Graduate schools of Oceanography, Library Science and Graduate School; undergraduate degrees offered are B.A., B.S., B.Mus.; graduate degrees offered are M.A., M.S., M.B.A., M.L.S., M.P.A. and Ph.D.; professional degrees in engineering; University Extension headquarters are in Providence; Narragansett Campus Research Center at Saunderstown, 6 miles from Kingston; Alton Jones Campus Research and Conference Center at Westerly; Sum. Sess. terms of 5½ wks. each.

[1] RHODE ISLAND COLLEGE, Providence (02908)—Urban environment; co-ed., state-controlled liberal arts and teacher-training institution; 1854 as Rhode Island Normal School; closed 1865 to 1871; reopened 1871; moved to new campus in 1958; 1,310 men and 1,400 women; enrollment in postgraduate and graduate program 2,700, mean test scores V492, M512; early acceptance possible; regional accreditation: New England Assn.

General fees $490 to Rhode Island residents, $1,175 for out-of-state students; $1,015-$1,115 a year room and board in four residence halls.

Degrees offered are B.A., B.S., M.Ed., M.A.T., M.A., C.A.Barnard School is campus laboratory; part-time undergraduate program; 1 Sum. Sess. term 6 wks.

[J1] RHODE ISLAND JUNIOR COLLEGE, Providence (02908) 1st St.—Co-ed., state-operated junior college; established 1964; limited Rhode Island residents; ACT recommended; no dormitories; cafeteria general fee $225 a year; limited student aid; CSS required by NDSL, Educational Opportunity grants, and college work-study; Liberal Arts and Sciences, Engineering transfer curriculum; Administration, Chemical Technology, Electronic Technology, Mathematics and Nursing; A.A. and A.S. degrees awarded; regional accreditation: New England Assn.

[1] RHODE ISLAND SCHOOL OF DESIGN, Providence (02908) 1st St.—Co-ed., privately controlled college combining a liberal arts with professional training; established 1877; 1,174 students (1,000 men, 174 women) in 18 degree programs; museum of art; lib. 44,343 books; periodicals; fac. 1: 11; freshmen admitted Sept. only, on CEEB S.A.T. median scores V585, M570; advanced-standing admitted by review of admissions committee; regional accreditation: New England Assn.

Tuition $2,350, board and room $1,175 other fees in supplies, approximately $300; typical annual expenses $3,800 for men, 5 for women; non-dormitory students required to live in approved by the college; cafeteria seating 500; financial aid grants $500 to $3,600.